

GENERAL REYES IS WATING DISPATCH FROM MEXICO CITY

MEXICAN LEADER SENT FOR BY DIAZ IS IN HAVANA,
CUBA TODAY.

INSURGENTS RESTLESS

Madero's Army Wants to Advance on Chihuahua at Once—Leader
Changes Plans.

[BY UNITED PRESS.]
Havana, May 20.—General Reyes, Mexican Ex-minister of war, who arrived here from Europe and who delayed his departure for Mexico City pending the receipt of dispatches from the Mexican capital regarding further developments of the Mexican situation, today made formal declaration to the Associated Press, that his supreme desire is for finding peace which can be secured only by laying aside of all personal and partisan pretensions on the part of both Government and Revolutionists.

Hard Fighting.
Chihuahua, Mex., May 19.—(Delayed in transmission).—The Federal garrison today was forced to evacuate Chihuahua, twenty miles southwest of here, after three days' battle with a force of rebels. The Federalists retreated to this city where they arrived tonight. The rebels showed great bravery and are said to have lost over a hundred men killed and wounded.

Rebels Ready.
[BY UNITED PRESS.]
Juarez, Mexico, May 20.—"On to Chihuahua" this is the whisper heard in the Mexican insurgent camps here, in spite of the declaration of leaders on both sides that fighting is over there was strong indication today that when the armistice expires Monday night trains will carry two thousand insurgents towards Chihuahua. Suddenly shifting his plans Madero has now issued a positive refusal to go to Mexico City while Diaz is President. Meanwhile war preparations go on the Madero camp.

INDICTMENT OF COX QUASHED BY JUDGE

Case of Ohio Political Boss Charged With Perjury Sent Back to Grand Jury for Reindictment.

[BY UNITED PRESS.]
Cincinnati, May 20.—The indictment against O. H. Cox, republican political boss and banker charged with perjury in the county treasury graft case, was quashed by Judge William L. Dickson today. Although this sends the case back to the grand jury for re-indictment it is generally conceded the present grand jury is of a different composition than the one that indicted Cox.

CHILDREN'S DAY AT THE POLICE OFFICE

Runaway Girls From Rockford and Clinton Youth Were Detained at Headquarters Until Parents Arrived Today.

This was Children's day at police headquarters, two girls and a youth being detained there a part of the day for various purposes. The two young ladies were Sadie and Jessie Wilcox of Rockford, who ran away from their home last night and came to this city, arriving here at midnight on an interurban car. They were picked up by the police this morning and held at the station until this afternoon, breakfast and dinner being furnished them by Chief of Police Appleby. Their mother arrived here this afternoon at two o'clock and took them home. The two girls were about fifteen and seventeen years old, respectively, and seemed to be bright specimens of girlhood, although they have been allowed to roam the streets so much. Their mother works in one of the big business buildings in Rockford, cleaning up the offices after midnight, and has evidently been unable to look after them properly, although the young ladies did not appear to be bold or rakish. They started out from the Forest City with five dollars in cash and as their resources were somewhat low, seemed pleased to return home again. No particular reason for taking the trip beyond the desire to take a ride was given by the maidens.

PROMINENT VETERAN OF CIVIL WAR DEAD

[BY UNITED PRESS.]
Racine, Wis., May 20.—Richard Callender, a prominent Grand Army veteran, who served as corporal with the 31st Wisconsin during the Civil War, died suddenly this morning of heart disease, aged 73 years.

LA FOLLETTE WILL AID HUGHES IN HIS PRESIDENTIAL BOOM

Boom of Associate Justice Hughes for Republican Nomination Definitely
Launched and La Follette Eliminated.

[BY UNITED PRESS.]
New York, May 20.—The World, in a dispatch from the Washington correspondent today says that a boom for Associate Justice Hughes for the republican nomination for President in 1912 has taken concrete form, and Senator La Follette, eliminated from the race by the Hughes boom, will lend his influence to the Hughes' cause.

SURVEYED TODAY TO EXTEND THE LINES NORTH ON MAIN ST.

Engineers for the Rockford and Interurban Company in City today to Make Survey.
Engineers for the Rockford and Inter-urban Company were in the city today making surveys of north Main street with a view to extending the tracks of the Janesville Traction company north Main street as far as the store building owned by P. L. Myers, which the Interurban company has rented as a freight office. The plan is to make the turn at Main and Milwaukee streets a trifle wider and allow the street track to run up Main street. Application to the council for this will probably be made at the next council meeting. With the track extended up Main street it would be an easy thing for the company to extend when the time comes for them to make this move.

MOTION FILED FOR NEW DIETZ TRIAL

In Circuit Court of Sawyer County
And If Overruled will go to Supreme Court—Clarence Dietz
Very Ill.
[BY UNITED PRESS.]
Fond du Lac, May 20.—Clarence Dietz, operated on Thursday night for appendicitis, is still critically ill, and the motion picture is expected Monday. This morning his temperature was 101 and 35, and his pulse 102.
A formal motion for a new trial for John Dietz was filed this morning with the clerk of the circuit court of Sawyer county. The motion will not be argued and upon the event of the court overruling it, appeal will be taken directly to the supreme court. The motion will probably be reached by that tribunal in August.

STATE VETERINARIAN "TO BE," IN TROUBLE

Dr. Hartwig, of Watertown, Prospective
State Veterinarian, "Prosecuted by Present Official in Tuberculin Matter.

Madison, Wis., May 20.—Dr. A. H. Hartwig, of Watertown, who may be appointed by Gov. McGovern to succeed Dr. D. H. Clark of Janesville as state veterinarian, has narrowly escaped state veterinarian, narrowly escaped on Thursday and Friday, Dr. Hartwig's case was discussed in detail and the prospective appointee himself was heard in his own behalf, and the board finally decided to give him "one more chance." Dr. Hartwig was accused of having misrepresented a tuberculin test record on the herd of Munger & Harris of Palmyra, in that he signed the record as having been made by himself personally. It is alleged by the owners of the herd that Dr. Hartwig was not on the farm at the time the test was made. The case was discovered when the welfare of the cattle, not being satisfied with the test "under the direction" of Dr. Hartwig, applied to the state veterinarian for a retest. The assistant to the state veterinarian went to the farm, when the facts were made known to him.

The case involved a peculiar situation in that Dr. Clark was called upon virtually to "prosecute" the man who was to displace him as a political appointee, and Dr. Clark is said to have indicated to his friends that he was unwilling to take advantage of the situation. However, the live stock sanitary board has received warnings from similar officials in other states and similar cases as practiced in several states is not put down, the requirement hereafter will be made that such tests must be made by federal, or state official veterinarians.

The Wisconsin board, incidentally, has given the same warning to the state veterinarian of New York, and the board is determined to compel legitimate testing. Within the last year it has refused to accept tests made by twenty-five non-graduate veterinarians and four graduate veterinarians, and in the case of Dr. Hartwig, the board has given warning that he will have to obey the rulings of the board.

How this case will affect Dr. Hartwig's status in case Gov. McGovern carries out his intention of appointing the Watertown man, is a matter that is receiving considerable discussion about the capitol. There is considerable opposition to Dr. Hartwig's appointment from Republicans all over the state.
Dr. Clark was appointed by Gov. Davidson and has made a most efficient official.
To Be Here On Monday. Judge Grimm will arrive in the city Monday noon to take up the cases in the circuit court.

REASONABLE PRICES IN LOCAL MARKETS

Tempting Array of Fruits and Vegetables Are Presented to Shoppers in Local Groceries.

Offerings in the line of fruits and vegetables in the local market continue to be of a high grade and to be sold at reasonable prices. The warm weather of the past few days has been most favorable to the local gardeners and as a result produce from truck farms in the vicinity of Janesville will be offered at an early date. At present asparagus, rhubarb and small lots of radishes and green onions of outdoor growth are to be found at the stores, and lettuce and spinach of hot house growth are also found.

All sorts of vegetables from the south are received every day and among the latest offerings are new potatoes which retail at from 1 to 2 cents per pound. Beans, tomatoes, cucumbers, carrots, beets and the like are presented and have been on sale for some time past.

In the fruit line strawberries are found to be of excellent quality at prices ranging from 10 to 14 cents per quart. The Illinois berries are now on the market and from present indications it will be only about two weeks or a little later before berries from local growers will be received.

The pineapple season is fast approaching and there are many fine specimens of this delightful fruit shown in the windows at prices ranging from 10 to 15 cents apiece. It will be only a matter of a week or so when they will be offered by the crate and large numbers will be sold for canning.

Prices for the various vegetables and fruits range as follows:
Asparagus, bunch, 10c.
Rhubarb, bunch, 5c.
Green onions, bunch, 5c.
Spinach, lb., 10c.
Cucumbers, each, 5c. to 10c.
Lettuce, 5c.
String beans, lb., 10c.
Strawberries, qt., 10c. to 15c.
Pineapples, each, 10c. to 15c.
Oranges, doz., 30c. to 50c.
Apples, pk., 50c. to 75c.

EVANSVILLE LODGE HELD CELEBRATION

Pythians at Social Gathering in Honor of Recent Trophy Contest at Beloit—To Go to Dordrecht and Belvidere.

(Special to the Gazette.)

Evansville, May 19.—At the regular meeting of the Knights of Pythias last evening, Fred A. Baker, the grand orator of the local lodge, conferred the oriental rank on a class of five. The work was followed by a social to which the wives of the Knights and the Pythian Sisters were invited.

The social was held as a jubilee in celebration of the winning of the trophy in the contest at Beloit. There was a program of good music by Clifford's orchestra followed by an address by Atty. R. M. Richmond and a paper by Mrs. Burr Tolson. There were about one hundred and fifty present and all in all the evening was made most enjoyable.

The Evansville Knights of Pythias have been invited to Dordrecht next Thursday evening when that lodge will entertain Monroe and Plattville also. The Dordrecht lodge has invited the prize winning team to do the work of the evening. It is expected there will be about fifty to go from here and they will probably make the trip by auto.

The Evansville lodge has also been honored with an invitation to assist in dedicating the new castle hall at Belvidere. The dedication will take place on June 3 and the Evansville members hope to get a special car for the occasion. The "Maiden of Chicago" will also have a special train to take them to Belvidere.

Social and Personal.

Miss Fannie Southern entertained twenty friends last evening for her friend, Miss Edna Pratt of Racine.

R. J. McCreary and F. W. Harrison were in Janesville yesterday.

Mrs. Adella Evans of Madison is spending a few days in Evansville.

Miss Idabel Lewis, teacher of the fifth grade, visited the city schools in Janesville today.

Mrs. Garret Griffith has returned to her home in Beloit, having been for a visit to Mrs. Lydia Curre.

James Gillen and daughter, Laverne, are visiting Janesville relatives today.

Dr. J. W. Ames, George Magee, Chas. Hubbard and Glenn Magee are spending the afternoon fishing at Indian Ford.

Miss Mary J. Earle is visiting relatives in Janesville.

Rev. and Mrs. D. D. Graham were Janesville visitors Thursday.

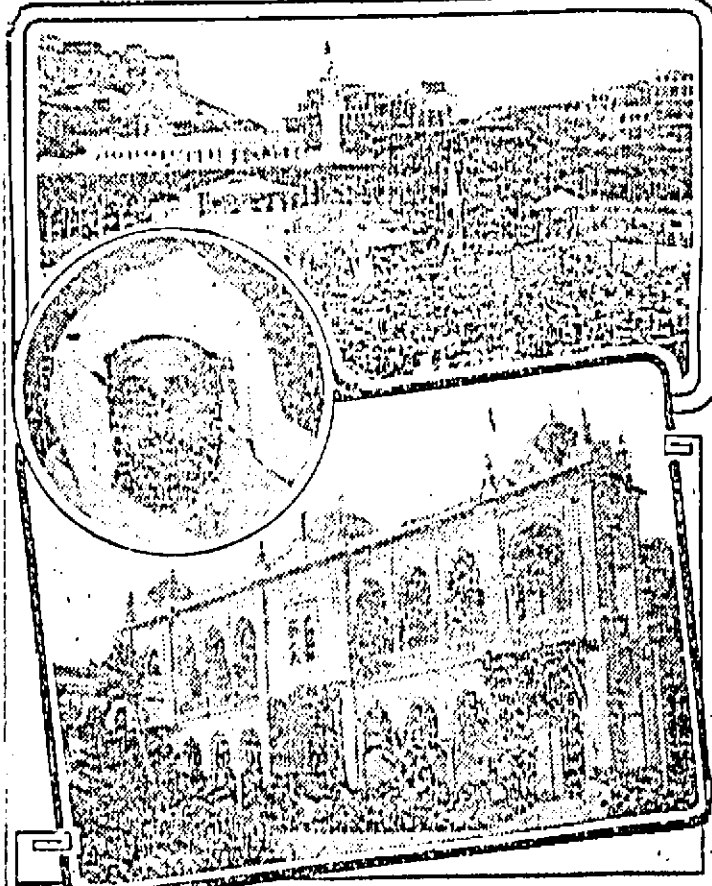

Mrs. Kate Jones of Oregon is the guest of Mrs. John Tomlin.

Mrs. Walter Gollmar will leave Monday for Indiana.

Miss Anna Halverson of Janesville is visiting local relatives.

CRISIS IN MOROCCO MORE COMPLICATED DAILY.

London, Eng.—With gunboats from several European powers headed toward Morocco, the complications become more serious daily. Just what attitude England will take in the matter is not fully known. The atrocious outrages perpetrated by the Sultan upon his subjects may lead to the overthrowing of his government and the establishment of a protectorate.

'Would Not Look Pleasant.

It took two attorneys and a doctor to take the photograph of a mule.

They wanted Mr. Mule's picture to use in a lawsuit against the Katoey railroad. It seems the mule tried to kick an engine off the track and failed, or something like that. The owner of the mule sued for damages and the attorneys and doctor thought the best way to secure judgment was to take a photograph of the mule and its injuries to exhibit to the jury. So they went out to the farm with a camera and the mule was so restless that it took them all the afternoon to get the picture.

Woman's Part in Commerce.

Americans are considered the most highly civilized people on earth because the men are more completely enslaved by their women.

The Spartan women who made bowstrings of their hair were no more potent a factor in the military achievements of the Spartan men than are the American women in the commercial achievements of American men.

He Ate the Crust.

Little Dickie, aged six, and the son of wealthy parents, came home one day and said: "Mamma, will it make me sick to eat pie crust? Teacher said it would; she has pie every day for lunch and scrapes out the pie and throws the crust in the waste basket, and I have been eating it every day, and I ain't sick."—Illustrated Magazine.

The Blood-Stained Equator.

Human life, I have reason to know, is held cheap at Equatorville, and the place is stained with many crimes. In fact, the whole equator is, through-out its 25,000 miles, a line of ignorance, savagery, and blood. It is a black line which civilization ought to paint white.—The Strand Magazine.

Diagnosis of Tobacco Habits.

As a rule for diagnosing character by tobacco habits it may be accepted that the best men smoke quietly and without ostentation, offer you a good cigar without a preparatory oration on its cost and merits, and smoke their pipes and cigars out to the end. When a man is concerned because his friends are not smoking with him he is a person to be cultivated.

Joke of the Middle Ages.

In the middle ages it was considered a fine amusement to watch the official jester leap into an immense bowl of custard. But occasionally a bespattered dame would indulge in language which to-day would be called quite checking, although then proper enough.

Maine's Deserted Villages.

Maine has had her deserted farms, and now and then one can find her deserted villages. Such a one is Welchville, in the town and county of Oxford, where once the pulse of machinery kept life beating fast in a thriving little community. To day the population is scattering, on the farms thereabouts chiefly, while the change in the value of the property is indicated by the story recently related of the sale of a 2½-story house for $175, which was worth $1,600 75 years ago. But the number of such towns is small. Maine is building up fast. Her deserted farms are being taken up, sometimes by progressive young farmers, and again by summer people, and the deserted Maine villages promise a new lease of life.

There is a Great Advantage in Overland Delivery Car Service

THE great advantage of Overland Delivery Car Service to you, as a merchant or business man, is not so much in its economy, though its use will save you money; nor is it its advertising merit,—though this feature alone will bring you prominence. The big advantage is its speed and ability—the fact that by it your delivery service can be tremendously improved—quickened,—made far superior to your competitors, and your daily business enlarged and increased thereby. You cannot fail to see the point. Think what it would mean to you to triple the effectiveness of your delivery system. To serve three times as many customers, or extend your business to good customers at three times your present effective radius! To become known as "the store that makes quick deliveries!" Here is your opportunity—grasp it!

Overland Delivery Cars enable one man to do the work of three men and three horse drawn vehicles. They have actually proved this, for a year and a half, under the strenuous requirements of the U. S. Mail Service.

They are quick, reliable and most economical. No weather can freeze them, no long hours can tire them. Even a boy can operate and care for them.

In Overland Delivery Cars, the back of the drivers seat can be swung forward, thus giving the operator easy access to the packages inside.

The two rear doors have positive locking devices, fitted with removable handle. The doors cannot be opened without the use of this handle.

On the bottom of the car a large carrying space is provided for heavy goods, and an upper rack is furnished for lighter and more fragile articles.

The design of the car is smart and up-to-date and the use of it indicates the most up-to-date methods.

The car is neatly finished in dark blue with cream trimmings. It is fully equipped with magnets, three oil lamps, horn, tools and repair kit. Storm curtains may also be added at slight cost. Interesting, descriptive literature on request.

THE FIRST OVERLAND DELIVERY TRUCK IN JANESVILLE HAS BEEN SOLD TO DEDRICK BROS. GROCERS.

Interesting descriptive literature on request.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT.

The farmhouse where Thomas Buchanan Read was born lies in what is called a "quiet vale," surrounded by gently rolling hills, and with the Brandywine flowing its water perhaps a mile away. The lane leading to the house was bordered with fruit trees, and a little garden in front furnished color to its gray stone walls.

One of Read's best known poems is a loving reminiscence of his birthplace:

"Between broad fields of wheat and corn
Is the lowly home where I was born;
The peach-tree leans against the wall,
And the woodbine wanders over all.
There is the shaded doorway still—
But a stranger's foot has crossed the sill."

"There is the barn—and, as of yore,
I can smell the hay from the open door,
And see the busy swallows throng,
And hear the peewee's mournful song."

"There is the orchard—the very trees
Where my childhood knew long hours
Of ease,
And watched the shadowy moments run
Till my life dimmed more shade than sun."

"There bubbles the shady spring below
With its tinkling brook where the hazels grow;

"Twas there I found the clematis root,
And watched the minnows peep and shoot,
And heard the robin lave his wing,
"O ye who daily cross the sill,
Step lightly, for I love it still."

The Christian Science Monitor brought to light this choice little poem, and the sentiment expressed harks back to the days and homely environments of childhood memories which take on a more vivid hue as the sojourner approaches the fringe of the outgoing generation.

"Two friends were driving through the country, the other day, enjoying the fragrance of blossoms and the beauties of nature's landscape painting—never more rich and beautiful than in this glad month of May, nineteen hundred and eleven.

Looking out across a valley where a farm house hid away in the trees, with a well kept lawn in front, gave evidence of a prosperous home. One of them said to the other:

"John, that place over there carries me back fifty years, for it is almost a duplicate of my boyhood home. The barn and outbuildings back of the house, the orchard and pasture, while the only thing to mar the scene is the windmill and tank, for we had the old fashioned spring where the pure, cold water bubbled up out of the white sand, and the spring house where mother revealed among the milk pails."

"That boy going out across the pasture, has the same kind of a dog that I used to have, and I can close my eyes and just imagine that he is me. One wouldn't give all that I possess to change places with him?"

"Oh, come back to earth, Jim!" said his companion, "for you make me homesick. I had a home a good deal like that myself, and if I hadn't known a lot more than my father I would be raising chickens on the farm yet. Queer, you and I jumped the farm about the same time, didn't we? But boys are pretty much alike after all."

"These two old men are representatives of a class whose ranks are rapidly being depleted, for while the fountain of youth is not perpetual, the storehouse of memory is packed with choice treasures which come to the surface with increasing lustre, as time advances, and the panorama, presented by a day in spring, causes the blood to course with new life.

An old lady came out of the woods yesterday bearing in her hands a bunch of violets and wild-flowers, and the grandchildren gathered about her in exclamations of delight, she told them of her girlhood and of the wood where she delighted to wander, and of the treasures which they now yield.

Not the same woods, for that was long ago, back in another state, but the same kinds of birds and blossoms, for nature is wonderfully kind and thoughtful, and the carpet of green, which covers the gray of winter, is a universal color, of which the eye never wearies, and the fragrance of fields and woods is choicer than the richest perfume.

It sometimes requires the passing of time to develop a sense of appreciation for the life of life comes in so strong, and there is so much of work and worry to demand attention, that not until it ebbs do many of us take time to live, and then we have forgotten how.

Happily the boy or girl who makes a comrade of nature in childhood, and who cultivates an intimate acquaintance through life to the end of the journey, for nature is a tangible expression of the God we have never seen, but with whom we hope to spend an eternity.

The plant life and animal life of this wonderful kingdom is an irresponsible life, untrammelled by the power of will, and yet responding to the touch of a Divine hand with a magic so full of mystery, that the mind of man fails to grasp it.

The unseasonable month of March, last year, caused the trees to bud and blossom, a month in advance of the allotted time, and when the cold winds and frosts of April blighted the early promise by changing the summer to a winter scene, the notion prevailed that somebody had made a mistake, and we said, "The summer will be destitute of foliage." But an old man who had lived close to nature, said: "Don't worry, there's another set of buds waiting to do business, and before the first of June you will be surprised at results," and we were.

But what happened to the fruit? Simply this. The life-giving current ready to nourish and develop, turned back to strengthen the tree, and today, because of the respite granted by a year's rest, every shrub and tree is loaded with blossoms, which promise an abundant harvest.

The kingdom of nature is not a skeptical kingdom. Its subjects believe in immortality, and no time is wasted in argument. The seed which scurries across the field before the wind, seeking shelter, is bent on a mission of reproduction, and the acorn, hid away among the leaves, is planning to contribute to the forests of the next generation.

Nature is trustful and dependent, but always loyal. Skepticism belongs to another realm—a realm endowed with power to think and act, and governed by a human will which recognizes no rival. And one of the peculiar things about this realm is that the greater the degree of intelligence, the more pronounced is the spirit of skepticism.

Elbert Hubbard of Roycroft fame, a brilliant and forceful writer, represents today the advanced thought in this field of skepticism. To his highly flamed mind the bible is a myth, God a tyrant, and immortality a distorted dream. The faith of heavenliness is more sublime and more satisfying than the faith of Hubbard.

In one of the Indian villages, down in the Florida Everglades, stands a little barrack, built of mangrove saplings from the marsh, and covered with boughs. It is a Seminole sepulchre, and when one of the tribe is called away, the body is placed in this rough tomb, with the gun and ammunition, and supplied with three days' rations to sustain the spirit until it reaches the happy hunting ground. That's the red man's hope of immortality, equipped by faith for the journey.

Efforts have been exhausted by the churches to win this scattering tribe to the Christian faith, and a mission is supported in the heart of the great swamp, but from the most reliable reports the Seminoles remain true to the faith of their fathers.

One of them said, not long ago, in answer to the question, "Has the priest converted you?" "No, no need convert; me good Indian now."

"But what will happen to you when you die?" was the next question. "No, he all right then," was the reply. "When me come down to the river with me gun, a white horse is there and me ride him across to the happy hunting ground on a log which bridges the stream."

"But what happens to the bad Indian?" "Oh, he find a black horse and when he get in the middle of the stream the horse fall off the log, and the Indian no hunt any more."

"That's the faith of nature's children, a little tribe which for generations has lived in the great swamp which no white man attempts to inhabit. They have studied the secrets of this great kingdom, until their knowledge of nature and nature's God puts to blush the investigations of science and their faith is so sublime that it brooks no question.

There is much in the world about us that we do not understand, but the budding of trees and springing grass are evidences of a Divine hand which creates and controls the forces of nature and inspires confidence.

PRESS COMMENT.

Think of It.
Beloit News: The woman's suffrage bill is nearly through its perfunctory journey through the legislature. If it finally passes and is signed by the governor, as is now expected, we may look for a strenuous campaign by its advocates before the election of 1912, when the people will be called on to vote on it. We dare say the proposition will win at the polls and that within two years women will be voting in Wisconsin.

Anti-Allinity.
Madison Democrat: They have what they call in Kansas an "anti-allinity law." It is the only one in the country, and has been in force only about six weeks. It provides that where a man abandons his wife and goes off with some allinity or for any purpose, he shall be guilty of a felony and may be sent to jail or the penitentiary for a year and kept there. There is a hint to our Badger solons.

Minus the Sob.

Heart to Heart Talks.
By EDWIN A. NYE

A COMMERCIAL ASSET.
This man failed in business. People in the neighborhood could not understand why.

As a merchant he was very attentive to business, he kept a good assortment, and his habits were good. Why should he fail?

Simply because he seldom smiled. Wherever you are incredulous.

It is true. The man made his place unpopular because he greeted you mechanically when you entered, listened soberly to your requests, tied up your package grudgingly, bowed you out rudely, and never, from first to last, was there upon his face the vestige of a smile.

The store-depressed you as does an undertakingshop.

Next door was his competitor, who had not half the other man's experience in business nor half the capital invested. But he knew how to welcome a customer. You felt at home immediately you entered. The atmosphere was surcharged with cheerfulness. The merchant smiled as he waited on you, talked pleasantly of the weather and smilingly ushered you out.

This man succeeded where the other failed.

Perhaps you have never analyzed the impressions made upon you in different places nor interpreted to yourself the difference in the salesmanship accompanied by a smile, but you have been affected in your purchases just the same.

A smile is big capital. It is a commercial asset. It is not so put down on the balance sheet nor on the profit and loss account, but it may be discovered between the lines of each day's business.

The smile removes friction from the day's doings. It creates successful atmosphere. A business man I know hangs this over his desk:

Smile awhile,
And while you smile another smiles,
And soon there's miles and miles of smiles.
Because you smiled.

A smile is like a pebble dropped into the quiet waters of a pond. The ripples go out and on and out to the farthest shore until "there's miles and miles of smiles."

Smiling is contagious.
If you smile in the world's face it will smile back at you.
If you face it with a frown it will front you with disfavor.

SARAH JANE pondered. She joins the lodge and rides the road, does many things that shock us, and now when learning how to vote, and lift her voice in voting. When she goes forth on Dobbin's back, she needs no lady's saddle; she gives her trusty steed a whack, and jogs along astraddle. She doesn't know the works of Pope or Thackeray, "Fendens," when training on the white man's horse, and she is strong at tennis. When whiskers sprouted on her face it didn't much amuse her, and off I hear her singing bawls while hunting for her razor. She is pathetic, and she's more or less than human; she is that trial to the soul, the modern mannish woman. You'd hear the countryside complain if I wore waders and dresses that I had swiped from Sarah Jane, her rats and storehouse dresses. The girls would hoot me out of town; they'd say I tried to shame them; they'd lynch me in my borrowed gown, and not a soul would blame them.

OPENING BOARDING HOUSE FOR WORKING GIRLS.

Mrs. Joseph Medill McCormick, daughter of the late Senator M. A. Hanna of Ohio. At top is shown the boarding house which is to be run at a profit but in the interest of the working girls at Washington.

Washington, D. C.—Mrs. Joseph Medill McCormick's boarding house for working girls is to be opened in a few days. She declares that there is nothing philanthropic about her new enterprise and says that she expects to realize from three to five per cent on her investment. The house is situated in the heart of the city and has been converted from an old fashioned dwelling into a fresh, modern hotel for girls. It is very tastefully furnished in mission style with single iron beds and is carpeted throughout with grass carpets. There are single and double rooms. The single rooms, with three good, wholesome meals, cooked and served in a dainty, appetizing manner are to be let at from five to seven dollars per week, according to the size. Two girls may have the double rooms at $4.50 per week each.

Valinglorious Men Ostrich.
W. F. THE ROCK COUNTY TELEPHONE COMPANY

was organized in 1889 for the purpose of furnishing Janesville with better Telephone service, at a fair rate. The Bell Company had operated here for twenty years, and had only a few over three hundred subscribers. Its rates were $4.00 per month for "business" and $3.00 for "residence" phones, all on single "grounded lines" so noisy that one had difficulty in talking over them after the electric lights of the city were lighted. There was not one farmer telephone in Rock County.

The Rock County Telephone Company installed a "full metallic" system (two wires), and thus eliminated the noisy nuisance. It also cut the rates one half, and later on, by adopting the party line system, was enabled to furnish residence phones for $1.00 per month.

We mention these things because there are only about 300 people in Janesville who may be expected to know what Telephone service cost under the old monopoly system.

"COMPETITION IS THE LIFE OF TRADE," and the splendid loyalty of the people of Janesville to our Company for so many years, proves that they appreciate competition, and are glad to patronize a "home" company. All of the capital stock of the Rock County Telephone Company is owned by Janesville people. We have 38 employees on our pay roll.

NOTE THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN THE PRESENT AND FORMER CONDITION:

Eleven years ago one paid $3.00 per month for a Residence phone, connecting with only 300 subscribers. Today One Dollar per month for a Rock County Residence phone connecting with over 2200!

During the past year we added over 300 new subscribers to our list. We have twice as many as our competitor has in Janesville.

Two Sides to a Crime.
It is all part of our tendency to be kind and considerate to lawbreakers; to think of the family of the man who has killed somebody instead of considering the family of his victim; to lay stress on the devotion of the relatives of the man who has looted a bank, rather than to take into account the broken depositors and their sharp sufferings. Hence the general approval of the fantastic extension of the pardoning power, which meets with no real, sane disapproval.—New York Evening Sun.

BLIND STUDENTS IN ANNUAL TRACK MEET MAKE GOOD RECORDS

Pupils in State School For Blind Held Annual Inter-State Track Meet This Morning.

Much enthusiasm was shown and some good records made at the annual outdoor inter-state track meet for the boys of the state school for the blind, held on the grounds of that institution this morning. More than usual interest is taken in this meet by the students of the school for the records and averages of the different pupils and classes are all set in to a general secretary, who receives similar reports from all of the state institutions and who in this way picks out the winning school.

The participating students of the school were divided into four classes according to their respective ages, class A over sixteen years, class B from fourteen to sixteen years, class C from twelve to fourteen years and class D, all those under twelve. The events consisted of several dashes of from forty to seventy-five yards in length and the standing and running broad jumps. Many visitors from the surrounding country took advantage of the opportunity to witness the blind boys in their contest. The runners were guided in their courses by means of wires to which were fastened runners held in the hand.

There were sixteen contestants in class A. In the 75 yards dash the average time was ten and three quarters seconds and the best time was made by Elmer Meyer of Ripon who sprinted the distance in eight and three-fifths seconds, and George Knuth of Milwaukee who tied the time. The average distance in the standing broad jump was six feet, eleven and three quarters inches, the best jump being by Elmer Meyer who cleared eight feet, six and one-half inches. In the running broad jump the average was nine feet, nine inches, the first place in this event again going to Elmer Meyer, with a distance of sixteen feet, three inches.

In class B there were ten contestants. The average time in the sixty yard dash was seven and two tenths, best time by William Hanson of Union Grove, time, seven and one-fifth seconds. The running broad jump was also captured by Hanson, who jumped thirteen feet and ten inches. The average was nine feet, two and one-half inches.

There were six contestants in class C, the events being the fifty yard dash and the standing jump. John Dittus of Underhill won in the dash, making a record of seven and one-half seconds. The average time for this event was nine and seventy-three hundredths seconds. Dittus also won the jump, going six feet and one and one-half inches. The average distance was five feet and one and one-half inches.

The events in the class D were the forty yard dash and the standing jump. Daniel Willis of Plattville won the former event in six and three-fifths seconds and the latter was taken by Earl Hisebeck of Beloit who went six feet, one-half inches.

The judges for the contest were Rev. William, Frank Dunn and Prof. Knudson.

MISS SARAH BATES A CLEVER READER

Large Audience Delighted With Entertainment Given Last Evening At Baptist Church By Former Janesville Girl.

Under the auspices of the Philathea class of the Baptist church, an entertainment was given last evening at the church by Miss Sarah Bates, a former Janesville girl, who has won considerable renown as an elocutionist. Miss Bates appeared here about a year ago and her entertainment was very successful, but the program last evening was even more pleasing than the previous one. Her powers of elocution are truly marvelous. She is equally apt and clever in her readings of profound or humorous selections. A selection from Les Miserables held her audience keyed to the pitch of excitement of the situation portrayed and the imitation of the haranguing of a "scold" was perfect. In a dialect sketch she impersonated a rich farmer who sought advice from a neighbor as to how to proceed in making a proposal to the Widow Green. Miss Bates' ability was most thoroughly shown in her imitation of a small child who feared he had done wrong, and sought to arouse the sympathy of his mother in order to stave off punishment. These and number of other readings which Miss Bates gave brought forth heartfelt applause from her hearers. She was assisted in the program by Miss Bessie Birch and the Sunday School orchestra. Miss Birch responding to an encore to two vocal solos and the orchestra rendered several delightful instrumental selections.

W. W. Watt of Reno, Nev., Writing for Information, Compliments Chief Klein on Discipline.

Chief of the Fire Department H. C. Klein was paid a high compliment by W. W. Watt of Reno, Nevada, formerly of this city, and now an alderman of that city. Mr. Watt, since his election, has been made chairman of the fire department, and he has written to Chief Klein for information concerning rules governing the local department. The letter states that while the equipment of the Reno department is first-class, the discipline is poor. A request is made for a copy of the rules in force in Janesville. In part the letter says: "The fire chief here receives $150 per month and it will take him ten years to know half as much about the business as the knowledge that you possess. The sixteen paid firemen receive $90 per month. Please remember me to the boys in the station." Chief Klein has complied with the request and a copy of the rules has been sent to the Reno alderman.

The English of the Bible.

This noble work is remembered with our land's language as a none other nor can be; it is warp and wool of the English mind; it is largely the history of the English people. Did we not venerate it, gather around it, cherish it as a national shrine, we should be poor Englishmen indeed. It beggars every other English translation, not least the Revised, which happily is seldom read in our Anglican churches. If any one would feel the splendor of the Authorized Version let him dip into a translation, done by some one lately, of the New Testament into common English of today; he will blush for his jargon.—London Saturday Review.

Work Ahead for Josh.

"I'll be kind of glad when Josh gets home from school," said Farmer Cornsmeal. "I have an idea he can be right useful." "Are you going to put him to work?" "Maybe. I've exhausted all the language I know on that team of mules. But I haven't given up hope. I want to see whether Josh can startle 'em some with his college yell."—Washington Star.

Bad Fire Was Averted by Prompt Action at the Chas. Noyes' Farm South of City Yesterday Afternoon.

Fire which caught the smoke house on the Chas. Noyes' farm, south of the city, yesterday afternoon threatened to spread to the adjacent farm buildings. The occupants of the farm house seeing the flames, were powerless to send the call for help to the neighbors, but a passing rig was pressed into service and help was brought to the place. The fire was extinguished with but a nominal loss.

GO IN FOR DAIRYING

"Stanley Country"

The cut-over Hardwood Lands in the Stanley Country have all the natural conditions necessary for successful dairying, such as climate, soil, pure water and abundance of clover and wild grasses.

When the timber is cut, the clover becomes King and creates pasture unsurpassed anywhere, thus paying for the expense of preparing the soil for the raising of small grains, etc. Wisconsin has over one thousand creameries and nearly two thousand cheese factories, which is one-half of the creameries and one-sixth of the cheese factories in the whole United States.

THE STUMP PROBLEM IS NOW SOLVED

This was formerly the one obstacle that the new settler in Wisconsin had to contend with. What drainage and irrigation did for the south and west, the powerful land clearing machines, clearing from three to five acres a day, will do for the cut-over lands in Wisconsin.

Why go thousands of miles away from your old home and settle on the expensive lands of the west and south when good fertile lands can be had at $15.00 per acre in the high priced communities within a few hours' ride from the world's best markets.

A delicious supper was served on the grounds and the return trip made in the evening.

HYPNOTIZES PAISIED MAN; MAKES HIM WALK

New York Giant, Who Has Been Paralyzed for Ten Years, Regains Use of Limbs.

New York, May 20.—Through hypnotic suggestion Melchior Luysterborg, a man of giant stature, who for more than three years has been completely paralyzed from the waist down, was able to raise himself from the operating table in St. Mark's hospital and walk around the room. This modern miracle of medical science was witnessed by a large delegation of physicians and nurses.

Luysterborg is thirty-nine years old and was a stover. He read of a remarkable change effected in a person afflicted like himself by Dr. Alfred J. Fox. Doctor Fox is only about half the size of Luysterborg. He had his patient brought to the operating room, where the physicians and nurses were gathered.

There was none of the grand stand Syngall demonstration about the doctor. He spoke to the hypnotized subject with the calm assurance that he might use in ordinary conversation. The giant subject, Melchior Luysterborg, seemed to be twice the size of the little doctor who sent his mental force with curious effect toward the helpless mass before him.

"Now, Mr. Luysterborg," began the doctor, "you are going to move your feet. Move your feet up and down. You have control of them."

The man began to wiggle the hitherto helpless feet.

"Now, you will notice that your legs are getting warm; you are going to perspire."

The suggestion almost instantly brought a glow. Then the doctors watched the perspiration start.

"You can stand up; you can walk. Of course, you will have to lean on these doctors, but you can walk."

The great form raised itself and got up from the table. Leaning on two doctors, like a child just learning to walk, the big man went slowly around the room.

Then he returned to the table and the hypnotic influence was removed. And it was here that the doctors got the greatest surprise. The man immediately sat up and said:

"I want to walk."

His effort was better this time than on the previous occasion and he went around the room with better effect. It was almost uncanny in its effect upon the watchers.

LUMMIS KISSES MARY GARDEN.

Audience at Los Angeles Banquet Enjoys Improvised Entertainment.

Los Angeles, Cal., May 20.—Members of the exclusive Gamut club were entertained with a public kissing bee between Mary Garden and Charles F. Lummis. Both seemed to enjoy it and the audience certainly did. Lummis, who has just returned from an exploring trip through Central America, was down for a speech.

"I've long been acquainted with the Garden of Eden," he said in an approach to the table, "but I never hoped to be so near this Eden of Garden."

Miss Garden sprang to her feet, seized Lummis by both hands and tendered her cheeks to him. He smacked them both loudly and joyously. Then, still holding hands, Miss Garden sang "Comin' Through the Rye."

MID-WEST HEAT WAVE BROKEN.

Showers and Cool Breeze Bring Relief to Sufferers.

Chicago, May 20.—The heat wave which for four days has held the mid-west in its grasp is broken, and indications are for a few days of cooler weather. Showers fell in Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and the northwest, while Nebraska reported a cool breeze on route east from the mountains. Temperatures throughout Nebraska are generally 25 degrees lower than they were on Thursday, on which day all May heat records were broken.

Many prostrations were reported from various cities in the heat zone, but fatalities were remarkably few. Cleveland, O., reported one death and half a dozen prostrations. In this city there were no deaths and but eight prostrations.

BUY COAL

Now and Save Money

Coal costs 50c per ton less now than it will later on. If you buy ten tons you save $5.00. Of course, it ties up money for five months, but it saves enough to be mighty good interest on your money.

We Protect Our Customers on Price

Some people have an idea that the price of coal will drop before next fall. While we do not anticipate it, yet if the price should decline at any time during the summer, we will give you the reduced price on what you buy now. So you can't lose anything and you are sure to SAVE 50c a ton.

PURE SCRANTON COAL

If you buy your coal here you get PURE LIVE SCRANTON, the coal that is all bright, fresh, live coal. There is a difference in coal, buy your supply here and you will see it yourself. Everything that is black is not coal. It's harder for us to get PURE Scranton coal, but it's worth the difference in satisfaction to our patrons.

WHAT WILL BE YOUR CAREER?

A Plain Talk By a Plain Spoken Man

"Lawyer though I am, and, kindly said by some, a successful lawyer, I wish I had started out when I was twenty as a Stenographer."

"I wish I could write Shorthand today and I doubly wish I could have written Shorthand ten years ago when I was a struggling young lawyer, living off most uncertain briefs and the more uncertain monthly remittance of a fond old farmer father whose ambition had always been to have 'a lawyer in the family.'"

"A Stenographer in a law office can become a lawyer as quickly as can a 'law student' in that same law office. The stenographer has every chance to NATURALLY acquire the knowledge of the law as it is dictated to him or her every day of the year—has every chance to obtain a thorough grasp of those intricate methods of dealing with people which a successful lawyer must master—has scores of chances to become familiar with the inside workings of a law case of any sort, which familiarity could never be gained in a law college ALONE in a thousand years. Stenography, in fact, 'breeds' chances—is pregnant with opportunity."

"So far as law experience is concerned the law office Stenographer has a big lead over the law student of any law office or law college."

"Please do not misunderstand me. I am not condemning law colleges. But I am most emphatically and everlastingly COMMENDING the course of those young persons who have been wise enough to become Stenographers in a Business College so that they might become Stenographers in a Law Office so that they might become lawyers."—Judge Harbison.

The same opportunities are open in all other lines of business. The stenographer who must write the letters of the firm learns more about the business, about business methods, about business opportunities, in a shorter length of time than any other man in the office. Stenography is the great "stepping stone" to business success.

RUPTURE

Its Cured Without the Knife and Without Pain. Doing Away With Your Truss Forever.

Rupture or Hernia or Breach as it is sometimes called may show itself at different places in the body, but it may occur at the navel, at the Femoral ring, the bowel descending down the inner side of the thigh, or the most common through the inguinal canal on either side of the pubic bone in the groin.

Rupture may be caused by a great many different causes, such as over lifting, straining at stool, severe coughing, blows on the abdomen, or from severe crying in infancy.

Rupture is an insidious disease—that is it gradually grows worse from day to day and from month to month, without attracting the particular attention of the victim, until it has reached a severe condition. And the sufferer who makes no attempt to check its growth awakes finally to the fact that he or she is in a serious condition.

Remember all big ruptures were little ruptures once, hence the importance of attending to these matters at their beginning.

Eight out of every ten ruptures can be cured without operation or the use of the knife. Two out of every ten can be cured only by a surgical operation.

The method which I have used so successfully for the past ten years in curing rupture is accomplished by the injection of a few drops of a healing and curative fluid into the tissues. This simple and painless procedure causes a growth of natural tissue which seals up the rupture opening and replaces the torn in the muscle by your natural tissue. In fact, after you have taken your treatment and are cured you will be stronger and more solid than you are on the other side where you have no rupture and a recurrence of your rupture on the treated side is absolutely impossible.

In the last few years certain physicians have been experimenting with hot paraffin or wax as an injection but this method up to the present time has not been a success, that because the body rebels at the introduction of a foreign substance into the tissues and accordingly the wax is liable to break up on becoming hard and leave the patient in worse shape than ever. And I want to warn you right here, beware of the Doctor who promises to cure you in one treatment, for he will use the paraffin method. If this was not the case, I should be a success I should be using it today, but such is not the case.

The method I use has been exclusively used by Dr. E. J. Potter, of New York, the leading specialist of this country in the cure of rupture, for the past twenty years and he as well as myself have scores of letters from people whom we have cured to prove our claims. And I have several among my collection from people right here in Janesville.

These treatments are practically painless and do not interfere with you in the pursuit of your daily occupation. There is no suffering and above all this treatment gives you a perfect lasting cure for all time without your being confined to your bed for a single minute. And it cures you safely.

You may say to yourself: "My rupture does not bother me, I have a truss that holds it in place, why should I bother to have it treated?"

The first and best reason why you should not allow such a condition to exist is that you never can tell when through a slip or a fall, or a sudden strain, your rupture is liable to come down and become fast or strangled. When such a thing does happen it means that if this condition is not relieved by operation in 48 hours, most gangrene, or a rotting of the bowel will take place and you will die.

If you will look through the death lists of any city you will be surprised to see how many people die each year from such causes, and sad to say simply because they have put off having their ruptures cured.

Secondly any man or woman who has a rupture is in reality only half what they should be in strength or vigor. Such a condition not only impairs your life and happiness, but it lessens your earning power, for a ruptured person is kept from doing many things they otherwise could do if well. I do not think I need mention also the annoyance and misery suffered by those who wear trusses. If you are a slave to a truss or other appliance you know what it would mean to be rid of this torture forever.

In regard to cases which I accept for treatment, I want you to distinctly understand that I do not under any circumstances accept incurable cases for treatment. No case do I take for treatment unless I know positively that I can cure to any cured, for in every case I do accept for treatment I give you a written, legal guarantee to cure or refund every cent you have paid me.

After I have examined you I will tell you frankly and truthfully whether you can be cured by this method without operation, about how long it will take for a perfect cure and the cost. If I find that I cannot cure you I will frankly tell you so and advise you where and when you can best be operated.

I operate on a great many that can not be cured otherwise, but as I have said eight out of every ten can be cured without an operation.

If to satisfy yourself that what I state is true and you wish to investigate my claims I will gladly give you the names of many right here in the state, some in Janesville whom you may ask or write and they will tell you just what I have done for them. Can you ask any stronger proof? Many, not all, of my cured cases have given me the privilege to refer to them in this way.

The cost of my treatment depends of course upon the severity of the case. No matter what your age may be, nor how long you have had your rupture, or what you have done in trying to get cured, it is not too bad a case if it can be cured. I have treated and cured children of two years of age and men over eighty years old.

To sum up here are the advantages of being cured by my method: You can take your treatment without losing any time from your work.

You do not have to leave home and go to a hospital.

You do not have to take any chloroform or other.

You suffer no pain.

You take no chances of your rupture returning, you are cured to stay cured.

You have no expense of a hospital.

Your treatment is sure and safe.

You are protected by a written guarantee.

If you have a rupture or if you are interested, on account of any member of your family or friend come and see me and I will tell you what can be done.

Such a visit will cost you nothing but your time, and may be the means of your getting rid of this annoying condition for the balance of your life.

I do not claim anything I cannot prove and I do prove everything I claim.

If you cannot call personally write to me at Milwaukee and your letter will receive my personal attention.

My charges are reasonable and within the reach of all, and I am always willing and glad to make terms of payment suitable to your financial condition.

If you have delayed being cured on account of the financial end of the matter do so no longer, but come and see what I can do. I am sure we can make terms satisfactory to us both.

And I can assure you that if you take my treatment and are cured you will never regret either the time or money spent in getting well. Consultation free.

I shall be at the Myer Hotel Tuesday, May 23rd, and every four weeks thereafter. Kindly call before 5:30 P. M.

DR. GODDARD, Milwaukee Specialist, 121 Wisconsin St., Milwaukee, Wis.

YOUNG WEBB ELOPES WITH GERTRUDE GAYNOR

William Seward, Jr., and New York Mayor's Daughter Are Wedded in Runaway Match.

New York, May 20.—Miss Gertrude Gaynor, a daughter of Mayor William J. Gaynor, eloped to Wilmington, Del., and was married to William Howard Webb, Jr., a son of Dr. William Howard Webb, and grandson of William H. Vanderbilt.

The young couple arranged the wedding hastily. The mayor did not know of it until he was informed by the bride over the telephone. Miss Gaynor and young Webb ran down to Wilmington with some friends, were married in church, and came back to town.

Gertrude Gaynor is the third of the mayor's children to elope. Rufus W. Gaynor ran away with Marie Cluff, daughter of a barber of New London, Conn., and on December 10, 1908, they were married in Chicago. She gave her name as May Queen. Rufus discovered later that she had a husband living, and a year afterward the marriage was annulled.

A little less than a year ago, Edith Augusta Gaynor, the second daughter of the mayor, was married in Wilmington, to Harry Karpis Vinant, a New York broker. This, too, was a clandestine affair. The ceremony took place in the office of Attorney George Gray of Wilmington. The mayor knew the couple were engaged, but he was not tipped off about the marriage.

It is rumored that Gertrude Gaynor was engaged to Alexander Stuart Wetherell, a broker, but that the engagement had been broken. Both families knew, however, that Webb and Miss Gaynor were fond of each other, although neither family suspected that they would run off.

OLD FINANCIER ENDS HIS LIFE.

Col. Henry C. Selous Commits Suicide in New York by Shooting.

New York, May 20.—Col. Henry C. Selous, a well-known financier and a director in many prominent industrial corporations, committed suicide in Central park by shooting. He was about seventy years of age. The colonel was a director of the Columbus and Hoeking Coal and Iron company, Davis Creek Coal and Coke company, Lanston Monotype Machine company and Hoss-Sheffield Steel and Iron company. He was badly hit in the collapse of the Columbus and Hoeking pool, and since had been nervous and morose.

MILK MEN OPPOSE RECIPROCITY.

C. H. Potter of Elgin Declares That He Believes in Protection.

Washington, May 20.—C. H. Potter of Elgin, Ill., representing the Milk Producers' association of Illinois, Wisconsin and Indiana, appeared before the senate finance committee to protest against the passage of the Canadian reciprocity bill.

"I have no apology to offer for appearing here in opposition to this bill, because I am a protectionist," Mr. Potter told the committee. "I was educated to believe in protection by such men as Senator Cullom, who is a member of this committee. I protest against the bill because it opens the doors of the American farmers' markets to the farmers of foreign countries."

"I believe that under the principles of protection as handed down to us by a great party whose votes elected the present incumbent of the White House, that we have built up the most prosperous country under the sun, and I protest against tearing down that prosperity by such a measure as this bill is."

A Severe Case of Leakage of Heart Made Well

J. N. PUDDICOMBE

Several patients have come to us with very severe cases of leakage of the heart. Every time the heart beat there was a leakage of blood. The leakage was due to a subluxation in the spine causing a pressure on the nerves leading from the brain to the heart, thus shutting off the vital nerve impulses and the weakening of the muscles resulted. No operation was necessary to overcome these cases, no medicines were necessary, no faith cure, or hypnotism or special diet of any kind. It was simply a case of removing the cause and the patient got well again in just the same way he got sick.

NATURE MADE HIM WELL

As soon as the subluxation was removed, Chiropractic adjustments correct the subluxations in the spine. How do these subluxations of the spine come about? It's hard to say, from severe coughing, from a fall or wrench of the body, from a strain of any kind, from habits of working certain muscles only. It's hard to say where subluxations come from.

But it's an easy matter to locate them. Let us look over your spine, and we can locate them in a second, we can also tell you what kind of ailment or sickness each subluxation will cause.

If you are sick or suffering, come to us. All diseases yield to Chiropractic adjustments. Come to us today for examination. Consultation free.

Read These Records and See How Others Got Well

Illustration No. 12. Prominent business man found he had a weak heart and that the beats were not regular. He sold out his business expecting to retire. He finally called on us and we found 2nd and 4th dorsal vertebrae subluxated. By replacing these vertebrae we removed the pressure from heart nerves which restored it to normal, and he is now well. This man went back into active business.

We have a great many cases of weak heart, and all get well by taking Chiropractic Adjustments.

BILIOUSNESS, ENLARGED LIVER AND MALARIA.

Illustration No. 15. A successful plumber had enlargement of the liver from a contracted fever and malaria. Several crises were always felt. When examined by the Chiropractor the cause of the disease was immediately located. This case was entirely overcome by adjusting spine at 7th, 8th and 9th dorsal vertebrae, thus loosening the nerves to liver and re-establishing the mental impulses, which is life.

In biliousness the liver is often overworked by eating more food than needed, and then when it can not perform its function any more, it is forced into activity by laxatives, until the trouble ends in chronic constipation. These people can all become well by Chiropractic Adjustment, freeing nerves to liver and bowels. We have more of these cases than any other kind. It takes considerable time when case is chronic, but can always be successfully handled. If laxatives are continued or stimulants it will end in stroke of paralysis or other serious troubles.

We have a great many of these cases, and 98 per cent got well.

CATARH AND DEAFNESS.

Illustration No. 4. A young man was deaf and suffered with catarrh for many years. We adjusted the third vertebra of his neck, freed the nerves to ears, nose and head and he is now free from catarrh and deafness.

Illustration No. 2 shows the first cervical vertebra of the neck out of place. This will cause Neuritis in the head. A woman who had suffered for many years was in this condition. She came to us and we found that the subluxation was pinching the nerves and cutting off the nervous impulses, which is life. Several Adjustments got it back in place and the lady was never troubled since with Neuritis. A great many of these cases come to us. The subluxation is not always in the same place and the neuritis is in the different parts of the body.

Illustration No. 11. A nationally known man suffered with dyspepsia and indigestion for many years. Adjustments were given at fifth, sixth and seventh dorsal vertebrae, restoring the nervous energy to the stomach, and he can now eat any kind of food without trouble.

Hundreds of our cases are of this nature. All get entirely well and at a smaller cost than you would pay to a doctor, without getting per-

Illustration No. 10. Lady blind most of time for 5 years; tumor on one side of eyeballs. The vertebra of the first and second cervical were shutting off the nerves leading to eyes. She suffered intensely. These vertebrae were adjusted to normal position and she regained her sight and became well.

Cases of eye diseases of various kinds are brought to us. All have been made well when adjustments were taken. We find that pressure on the nerves leading to different parts of the body causes different diseases; so the subluxation is not always at the same place in the spine.

Illustration No. 9 Consumption in a young lady. The second and third dorsal vertebrae were found in a lateral subluxated condition, throwing a pressure on the nerves that ran to the lungs, causing congestion of the lungs which threw the patient into consumption. By replacing these vertebrae and removing the pressure from these nerves it gives nature a chance to restore perfect health. We have had a large per cent of these cases, and all are now well.

Consumption is not contagious, as very many people associate with these cases daily, and yet are no more liable to contract this disease than men engaged in other callings.

Consumption is not contagious, as very many people associate with these cases daily, and yet are no more liable to contract this disease than men engaged in other callings.

Bronchitis is started with a cold or catarrhal condition of the head, the discharge therefrom running down the bronchial tubes which irritates the nerves and causing contraction of the muscles which produces a subluxation of the first and second dorsal vertebra. The result is Bronchitis and Consumption. By replacing these dorsal vertebrae we restore the natural condition and the disease disappears immediately.

ARTIST WHISTLER AS A BOY

Olives Pretty Proof of His Liking for a Little Girl School-mate.

Whistler, the eccentric, the brilliant, the man of cutting wit that spared neither foe nor friend, figures so largely in the newspapers and magazines of the day that it is a pleasant change to catch a glimpse of him—in Lillian Whistler's life of Louise Chandler Moulton—just as a boy, in the act of giving pretty proof of his liking for a little girl.

Among the schoolmates of Mrs. Moulton's childhood years was the boy who was afterward the artist Whistler, one year her senior.

As children they often walked home from school together, and one night the little girl was bewailing that she could not draw a map like the beautiful one he had displayed to an admiring group that day.

It was a gorgeous creation in colored crayons, an "arrangement" that captivated the village school with such the same ardor that the future artist was destined to inspire from the art connoisseurs of two continents. A sad object, indeed, was the discordant affair that Ellen Louisa held up in self-abasement, while she poured out her enthusiasm on his achievement.

The lad received this praise with lofty scorn.

"That's nothing!" he exclaimed. "You think this is anything? Take it; I don't want it; you just see what I can do tomorrow! I'll bring you then something worth talking about."

With the precious trophy in her possession, the little girl made her way home. And, true to his word, the next morning "Jimmy" brought her a package whose very wrapping revealed the importance of its contents; and when she had breathlessly opened it, there was disclosed an exquisite little painting.

Under a Gothic arch that breathed—no one knew what enchanted hints of "the glory that was Greece and the grandeur that was Rome," or some far-away dreams of Venice, or some other dimly prefigured marvel in the child's fancy, was an old monk, through the picture were silver gleams, and a vague glint of purple, and altogether, it held some far prophecy of the brilliant future yet undisclosed.

All her life Mrs. Moulton kept the gift. It had an unobtrusive place in her drawing-room, and even figured modestly at the great Whistler exhibition, which was held in Boston by the Copley society after the death of the artist.—Youth's Companion.

Twilight and the Meadowlark. It was at the edge of a dense sweetgum, wood embowered with golden red, aslers and wild sunflowers—with the reddish-golden sunset glinting on the lower tree trunks—the hour of day's passing, of trailing mist on the bordering meadows—that I saw and heard him. I had come a long way without a note of bird song; with but a glimpse of hurrying wings (for most of the singers had gone south); and I felt that I could not go home without hearing his lovely flute call.

He has another call, a diminutive rattle sounded usually when he first takes flight, but his flute call, though not a note of it changed the year round, is his distinctive music—tender, softer in quality during the fall and winter. Heard at twilight, then, it is like a strand of silver mist trailed across the meadow; a faroff voice of memory—a spirit call sad and inexpressibly sweet.

When he saw me coming he crouched in the grass, his yellow breast almost hid, his tail flitting its white, outer feathers in view; but as I waited patiently, perfectly still, he straightened up; his flute rang clear, and presently, out of the sunset, like a faint echo came an answer.—Outing Magazine.

Latin America Can Defend Itself. Only the uninformed regard Spanish America as an easy field for alien conquest. Napoleon, when at the height of his power, deemed that the subjection of Spain would be an easy task. But the Spanish enterprise proved his ruin fully as much as the invasion of Russia, and while it is true that British valor and the genius of Wellington were decisive factors in the result, the Spaniards themselves struck telling blows for their own liberation.

The Spanish-Americans share with the people of Old Spain that remarkable capacity for recovering from apparently hopeless conditions which seems inherent in the Latin and Celtic races. A strong invader might occupy their cities, but he would be met on every side by a cruel guerrilla warfare that would make lasting occupation impossible. The earlier scenes of the Peninsular war would be repeated on American soil.—Columbian Magazine.

Her Sweet Thought. Little Marjorie is by no means fond of going to church. She has to sit too still, and "the man" talks some things she can't yet understand.

"And when you can't understand what the minister means, you must remember that he is talking about good and beautiful things, and you must make up your mind to think of something good yourself."

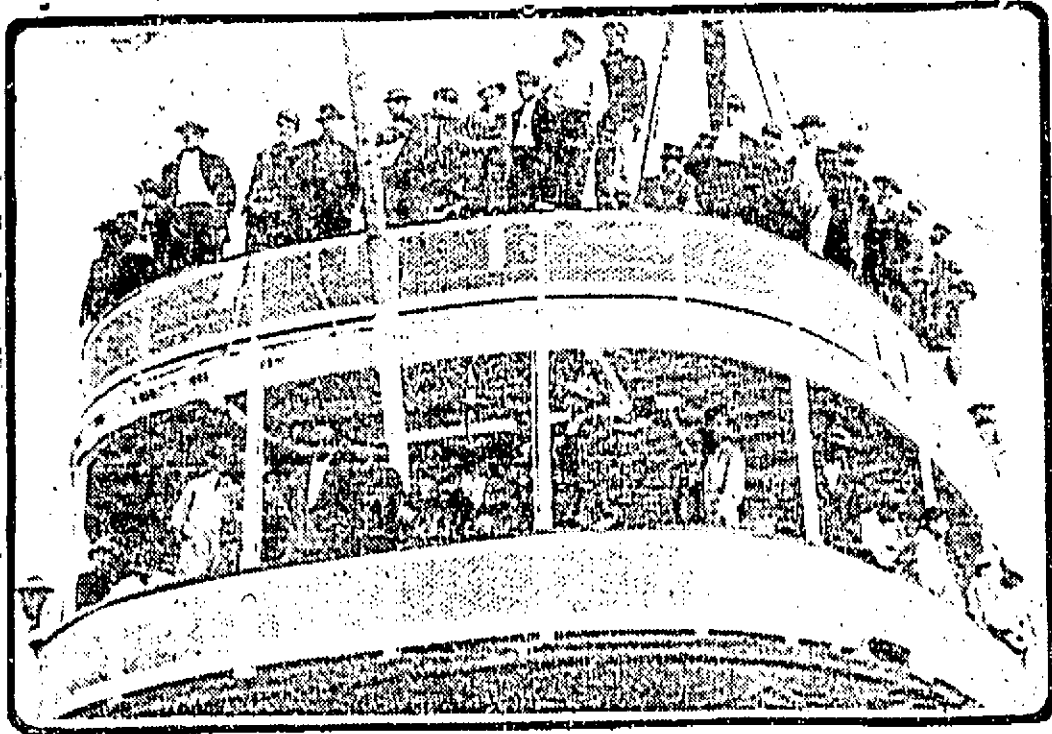

That day Marjorie was very quiet in church, and her mother praised her for it on the way home.

"I did just as you told me," said the wee maid. "I thought of something good."

"What was it, dearie?"

"Chocolates."—Stray Stories.

Amusement vs. Vice. I am a great friend to public amusements; for they keep people from vice.—Samuel Johnson.

IMPORTERS OF FILIPINO LABOR HAVE TROUBLE.
Filipino Laborers Destined for the Alaska Salmon Canneries as They Appeared on the Steamer Senator.

San Francisco, Cal.—Steering a hiding place among the disengaged shipping of Mission bay, the steamer Senator of the Pacific Coast Steamship company, came in from Honolulu, returning from an unsuccessful quest to import Filipino laborers from Hawaii to work at the great salmon canneries of the Alaska Packers' association on the shores of Bristol bay, Alaska.

Although the Senator left here equipped to bring back 1,000 immigrant laborers, there were only 145 of the small-statured brown men on board when she arrived. This disorganization of the labor contractors' plans was due principally to the island planters, who raised a battery of legal obstacles to prevent their laborers from being taken away from them.

When she arrived at Honolulu the Senator was forced to get outside the three-mile limit in order to avoid libel proceedings, and the island police stopped small boats from taking laborers off to the vessel. In addition to this, injunctions were issued to restrain F. B. Craig and J. C. Bell from soliciting immigrants without a license, the law having been passed especially by the territorial legislature, which was in session at the time. Craig was arrested and in order to get clearance for the Senator bonds had to be given.

To add to the trials and tribulations of the labor agents, the majority of the Filipinos on the Senator refused to be transferred to Alaska Packers' vessels lying ready in the stream, insisting upon being placed upon terra firma before they proceeded any further, and last night the steamship lay in the harbor with 110 of the disgruntled men aboard. Of the crowd only 30 were willing to be put aboard the ship Star of Italy, anchored nearby, and as they trooped over the gangway of the Senator to the launch Twilight the little brown men drew the looks of their countrymen aboard the steamer.

"You better not go aboard there," they cried. "We're going ashore," they pointed to where the sun was sinking behind the city.

After receiving patrifurms from the quarantine authorities, the Senator steamed quickly to Alaska bay where she was met by Peter Nelson, a cannery boss for the Alaska Packers, and a number of Chinese labor contractors. The latter appeared disgusted and soon started back to the city, while the task of getting the Filipinos off to the packets devolved upon Nelson, the cannery boss.

He found a hard job on his hands. The senator's officers had filled their part of the bill by bringing the steamer back here and watched Nelson's pleadings with amusement.

When told to get their luggage and go down the gangway to the launch, the Filipinos rebelled, folding their arms and gathering at one end of the deck.

"We go ashore when we tie up to a dock and not before," they declared angrily. "And we want better show than they gave us during the eight days coming up here."

Time went by and only an occasional Filipino would take up his little basket and go down to the launch, assailed by the flies of those who held back.

The Senator was as mysterious as a blockade runner. As soon as Nelson, the cannery boss, got aboard the Jacob's ladder was pulled up and the sign, "No Visitors Allowed," displayed. Even Capt. George H. Zeh himself struck a deaf and dumb attitude, holding his fingers to his ears and mouth, grinning when asked what kind of a trip the steamer had coming up. His passengers, however, answered for him shouting in chorus: "Fine weather, but too much rice."

After one lunch load of laborers had been sent off to the Star of Italy the Senator placed her anchor light and while darkness settled over the bay the little men from the faraway Philippines struck up a tune on their guitars and sent a native song soundly, sweetly over the water.

A Book for a Meal. Sir Gilbert Parker recommends a simple method whereby one may possess the books one would like to possess. "I have often said to myself," he remarked to a London audience, "I cannot afford to buy that book." And I have said again: "My dear fellow, if you will fast for one day you can buy three of them." It is a book for a meal.

Nearer. In our mining camp the men congregate on a bench outside the mess-house and "talk it over." One of the miners, old Methuselah, has a very prominent nose, and is the object of much respectful amusement. Last night one of the men remarked that there was a fly on the end of his nose. Old Methuselah answered: "Brush it off yourself; you are nearer to it than I."—Harper's.

FOREWORD

The Big Store has grown so in the past few years, that a bargain basement is now a necessity, and with this end in view, we have arranged a modern Bargain Basement in the North Store.

Bargain Basements have specific work to do, viz: that of cleaning out all remnants of stocks, all merchandise that for one reason or another does not go well at regular prices. The Bargain Basement of The Big Store will offer all merchandise from regular stocks that for one reason or another does not sell well. But there will be a great inducement to patronize The Bargain Basement; that of PRICE.

Nothing shall be offered in the Bargain Basement that is not a great bargain. And there will be lots of them. There will be remnants from all departments, merchandise from all departments that is not the latest, there will be styles from last year, all at prices that will make them better values even than regular goods at regular prices.

For the purpose of the Bargain Basement is to clean up these stocks in quick order.

The Bargain Basement will not be ready for a few days.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON.

HOW many breakdowns could be prevented, how many illnesses forestalled, how many lives saved even, if more women knew when to stop, and had the strength of mind to stop right then, even though stopping seemed absolutely impossible.

I am thinking of a neighbor of mine. She is a widow. To support herself and her children who live a sort of hospital and home for feeble old people. She has at present seven old women. All of them are feeble, one is actually ill, two are feeble-minded and one out-and-out insane.

Besides the old ladies, who have two other boarders which, with her own, makes a family of twelve. With the help of two maids, she takes care of this remarkable household.

Last Saturday, after an unusually hard slog and almost sleepless week with the sick old lady, this woman calmly turned the whole care of the house over to the head maid and went off for the weekend to visit her daughter in a distant city.

By accomplishing the work she is daily doing I think this woman has proved herself one in a hundred. But by stopping as she did I think she proved herself one in ten thousand.

When she went away from that house, Mrs. S. was in an agony of nerves. For the last day or two, she said, as she passed through the rooms, she felt as if the pictures were about to fall upon her, and as if she were carrying the house on her back. It seemed to her that the old ladies were all about her, but she knew she must and she did.

The moment she stepped on the train she felt better. When she reached her daughter's home she felt absolutely happy and care-free for the first time in weeks. Almost all the two days of her visit she slept the exhausted sleep of strain relieved, and came home the third day immeasurably refreshed and strengthened beyond belief.

When she told her doctor about it afterwards he said that if she had not taken that brief change of scene and relief from strain, a breakdown would have been inevitable.

Think of that woman saved by knowing when to stop and by stopping under circumstances that the ordinary woman would have called absolutely impossible.

Alice Freeman Palmer, the first president of Wellesley College, was noted for the prodigious amount of work she could get through despite her apparently slender strength. Her husband accounted for this by the fact that she always knew when to stop and always did stop, then put away all care and fled to her country home, no matter what needs pressed.

The tired old woman who knows that she absolutely needs a little rest and who says: "I cannot afford to take it, because there are so many who need me," is really stating the very reason she cannot afford not to take it.

If you are much needed, isn't that so much the more reason that you can be spared a day or two much better than a month or two?

A week, a weekend, even a day, of stopping short, resting and recreating at the psychological moment, have staved off and prevented more breakdowns than weeks and months and years of vacations have ever cured.

Wise, indeed, the woman who has the wisdom to know when to stop and the foresight to do it.

There are almost as many formulas printed for shampooing mixtures as for face creams. Some of these are excellent, and others possess no special cleansing properties, while some are positively injurious and should never be experimented with. Here are a few formulas selected from a long list, and we can select from them according to our special needs.

Three eggs lightly beaten with three tablespoons of warm water. Rub the mixture into the hair and on the scalp, taking pains to cleanse quite as thoroughly as though you were using a soap shampoo. More eggs can be used if necessary, but the proportion of water should be a tablespoon to each egg. If the odor of the eggs is unpleasant to you, a little toilet water can be put in a half pint of cold water, and poured over the hair after the last rinsing.

An egg shampoo with soap jelly is sometimes more satisfactory than eggs alone, and the general rule is to use one teaspoonful of soap jelly to each egg, mixing them well; then fill a basin with two quarts of hot water, hold the head over it and add the hair well with the egg mixture, using the water from the basin to assist in the cleansing; rinse in several waters and dry in the sun.

For blonde hair the following is advised: The whites of two eggs, four ounces of rose water, a half ounce alcohol and a level teaspoonful of powdered borax. Rub into the hair as you would any other shampoo, cleansing both hair and scalp, and rinse well in several waters.

A simple shampoo consists of a half cup of olive oil soap, a level teaspoonful of baking soda and a generous pint of hot water. Let stand till cold when it will be a soft jelly. Wet the hair first with warm water, and shampoo with the jelly.

For very oily, dirty hair, take a tablespoon of green soap and dissolve it in one pint of hot water by constant stirring. Add a half ounce of glycerine and an ounce of alcohol. This is excellent where there is thick dandruff, as it is very cleansing to the scalp.

White hair is said to be greatly benefited by a shampoo composed of a small cup of shaved white soap in one and a half pints of boiling water, and when dissolved add a half pint bay rum, a teaspoonful powdered borax and twenty grains bi sulphate of quinine. Keep in a glass jar. A few drops of laundry bluing in the last rinse water will help to prevent the yellow streaks which spoil many an otherwise snowy "crown of glory."

No matter which shampoo mixture you use, your hair should be dried in the sun.

His Lucky Day.

A queer reading place was that of the man who recently fell asleep between the railway lines at Wat Wan, New Sydney, N. S. W. A water train passed over him, but the lucky sleeper escaped with only an injury to one of his big toes.

Condensation.

"Do you use condensed milk at your house?" "I never do. We order a quart a day, and the milkman squeezes it into a can that holds about a pint."

ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Tourist Reader: You will not need so long a list of toilet preparations for use on that trip. I will gladly make out what I think will be a complete outfit for your requirements, and will give you the addresses and prices for your convenience, and will also include a couple of formulas which you can prepare yourself if you wish. I would certainly suggest a good cleansing cream and a tonic or lotion as well. A massage cream which will also answer for a foundation for powder. A bottle of rosewater for use instead of plain water, which is often an irritant to a sensitive skin. A bottle of eye tonic, and a few other things, all of which can be neatly packed in a small toilet case and which will be a great comfort to you, as well as keep your complexion in fine condition. No charge is made for any advice from this department, and you are welcome to ask as many questions as you wish.

Busy Body: For very grimy hands use cleansing cream generously and thoroughly before scrubbing with soap and water. This will soften the dirt, and it can be more readily removed. If you will dissolve a little baking soda in a bowl of quite warm water and soak the hands in this for five minutes after using the cream you will soon be able to get the hands white. Use a mild soap, as very strong soaps make the skin rough and the dirt is much harder to get out. Remember to rinse the hands always in clear water. Apply a little cold cream immediately after washing the hands and before they are entirely dry, rubbing it well into the skin.

Feminine Weakness.

A very homely clergyman was severely battered in a railroad wreck, in which he suffered the loss of a foot. One day soon after he took unto himself a wife, a beautiful woman, the ill-used minister met an old friend on the street, who banteringly asked how in the world such a pretty girl came to marry him. "Oh, ladies like remnants," was the cheerful reply.

The KEECHEN CABINET

BEAUTY without virtue is like a flower without fragrance.

Labor conquers everything.

Cocktails.

The cocktail is a very popular beginning to a dinner, the object of which is to stimulate the appetite for the heavier dishes which are to follow. The gastratory nerves are very sensitive, and if abused by too highly seasoned foods, lose the power to appreciate the more delicate and flavorful flavors which it should be our pleasure to enjoy.

Mint and Lemon Cocktail.—To one quart of strong lemonade, made with four lemons, add one cup of tea infusion, a few sprigs of fresh mint and a sprinkling of red pepper. Sweeten to taste, pour over crushed ice and serve with a lemon curl on top of the glass.

Clam Cocktail.—For every cocktail required, take one teaspoonful of lemon juice, one teaspoonful of vinegar, a quarter of a teaspoonful of walnut sauce, one-half a teaspoonful of mushroom catsup, a pinch of salt, and a dash of tabasco sauce. Pour this mixture over eight little neck clams and serve in a well-chilled glass. This cocktail is favored for luncheon and supper.

Pineapple Cocktail.—For each glass take a tablespoonful of pine apple and lemon or orange juice and one-half of a tablespoonful of grated orange peel. Sweeten to taste. Pour over a little crushed ice in the bottom of the glass and add a little cold water.

Lemon Cocktail in Lemon Cups.—Prepare as many lemons as there are guests to be served by cutting off the round end until they will stand firmly, and then cutting off the pointed end about a quarter of the way down. Empty the lemons and scrape well. Make a strong lemonade, and add an equal quantity of grape juice. Chill and fill the cups with the mixture. Place the lemon cups on a paper doily on a small plate.

Sauces for Oyster Cocktails.—One teaspoonful each of horseradish and tomato catsup, salt, pepper and tabasco to taste and two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice. Mix well, chill and serve on oysters.

Catsup, horseradish, walnut and mushroom catsup with lemon juice makes a sauce well liked.

JOHNNIE BULL AND "OPERA".

May 20.—Our old friend John Bull had his first sleep at "opera" on May 20, and John didn't know exactly what to make of it. Like the rest of the smart set John had been going to the "show" now and then, and by strict attention, and a seat in the bald head row, had been able to get an idea of what was doing. But this was different. Sir William Davenant had put on an "opera" and John took it in. He could keep track of the dialogue but when it came to following the plot via the singing route, that was different. As a matter of fact John was in the same boat as the rest of us, and he had to make a bluff at guessing. But the new game made a hit just the same and they have been singing the story at us with more or less success ever since. Opera has proved a great boon to musical composition and some of the greatest composers of the age are now working their lives and brains away in involving new steps for the "phony ballet" and writing rhapsodies which will keep them moving.

Talk To Housekeepers

(By Nellie R. Horn.)

"Serve yourself, would you," said "Mamma," an excellent adage," quoted Allen Standish, back in the old colony days, and many a modern housewife, after a more or less varied experience, will heartily endorse his sentiments.

Of course, there is reputed to be in existence a fortunately favored few who possess old family servants, with the love and pride of "family" so deeply imbedded in them that it has become a part of themselves. But it is for the majority of housewives who struggle along as best they may, either with or without "help" (2), that these "household hints" are given.

When one sends out for washing, there are always some pieces that one does not care to trust in the hands of the washerwoman, and a few more, and the washboard washing, though a nuisance, becomes a necessity. There are a great many contrivances on the market that lessen the work, such as the small washboard which fits the bowl; the tiny wringer which clamps onto the sink or table, and which does not injure the dainty linen as the hand wringing does; and the sink stopper which effectively closes the drain of the sink, and—in case your sink is clogged—permits you to use the sink itself for washing and rinsing.

The bluing problem, however, is a very real one, though it can be solved in a simple manner. Put the bluing, previously dissolved in soft water, into an old toilet water bottle with a sprinkler top, and you will be surprised how easy it is to get the desired depth of color.

At this time of the year, every one is either mending the old lace curtains, or planning on new ones. Many of the latter are stenciling scrim curtains, or making up the plain net with Chrys-lace edgings and interlinings; but any one who has ever worked with scrim or net knows how difficult it is to keep the blue in place. They will stay out in spite of the most careful handling, and the lace will be ruined. If you use the ordinary crimped wire hangers instead, you will overcome this difficulty. They hold perfectly and do not injure the fabric, doing away entirely with the tedious handing.

Speaking of curtains, reminds me of a hint that might be helpful to those who are "doing up" the old ones. A teaspoonful of copperas, added to a boilerful of water, will restore the earth shade of your faded curtains. In stiffening the curtains, borax is better than starch, as it gives them that "new finish" which is far preferable to the washed and starched and such point pulled out appearance common to old handerled curtains. To make this, dissolve four level tablespoonfuls of powdered borax in a little hot water, and dilute with one gallon of lukewarm water.

Care of the Babies

Bowels: "The care of the bowels is of extreme importance to the well-being of the young infant, and the directions pertaining to them, given by the physician, should be strictly adhered to."

Many children suffer from colic. It is a symptom of indigestion, but may be due to constipation or cold feet and hands. If constipation is the cause a dose of castor oil, followed by a flushing of the bowels with a warm salt solution will usually cure the attack. Often, for mild attacks, a little warm water or a teaspoonful of peppermint water will suffice. The feet and hands of a colicky baby should be kept warm. The attack is often due to the mother's milk being too hot, and to her not keeping regular hours. If the colic continues after these simple means have been tried, and failed, a physician should be consulted. Beware of giving soothing syrups for they generally contain harmful drugs: Paregoric, whiskey and brandy should never be given unless under a physician's direction.

Some claim that a nursing mother should not eat certain articles of diet, but no two cases are alike and a mother has to determine what she can eat by exclusion.

Every mother should learn to give a high colonic flushing—the apparatus required is a fountain syringe to which is attached a rubber catheter. The catheter should be oiled and passed into the bowel slowly. If it is given slowly after a pint of water will flow in before any return—the water used should be boiled and of a temperature of 98 to 100 degrees F.

Irrigation of the colon is often very useful in relieving colic due to indigestion—it removes the undigested food and the products of decomposition.

Napkins: Soiled napkins should be removed from the nursery at once and washed as soon as possible and then soaked in clear water. Later they should be boiled in hot suds and thoroughly rinsed and dried—never use a damp napkin or one that has been dried and not washed.

Kidneys: For the first few days the infant passes but little urine. When it begins to nurse well the amount is increased.

The napkins should be changed as soon as soiled with urine as they soon become a source of irritation to the child and may cause eruptions. During the second year the child should be taken up at ten or eleven o'clock at night to urinate.

For the first three years the habit of Enuresis (wetting the bed) is a normal phenomenon, and it may be normal if the habit lasts longer, providing no other cause is found for it. If this continues it is a good thing to give one or two nights after 1 P. M. Never punish a child for the habit, for if it comes from indifference the child will soon become ashamed of it and stop.

Circumcision: This operation is not necessary in all cases. A physician's advice as to the care of the genitals is often necessary, as cleanliness of those parts is of the utmost importance.

Exercise: Besides the massage after the morning bath the baby receives most of its exercise by "kicking, screaming, waving its arms, etc., therefore its clothes should be loose. A good plan also is to remove all the clothing for about fifteen minutes each day, place the child on a bed in a warm room and allow it to amuse itself.

A baby does not need excitement—it has nerves as well as a grown person. It is a well known fact that children of poor people are less nervous than those of the rich, principally because the mothers do not have time to hold the child and do all manner of things to amuse it. A healthy child left alone in its crib or on a bed between nursings will manage to amuse itself when awake. If carried about it soon comes to expect it—and a bad habit once formed is hard to break.

FLOWERS FOR THE LIVING.

Flowers are about the first thing many of us think of when preparing for the funeral of our friends. We may not have thought much about flowers when our friends were alive and could have enjoyed them, but somehow the moment death strikes one of them down we also to cover his bier with blossoms.

And yet if we had spent only a small fraction of the cost of the funeral flowers during the lifetime of our dear friend—if we had only placed a rose or a lily occasionally in the hands of our loved one, how much more it would have meant.

Why shouldn't we buy flowers for our families and our friends while they are able to enjoy them? Why not give them a chance to enjoy some of the beautiful things while life is yet sweet? Why not let them realize that our souls are sympathetic and that we have a sincere affection for them. Instead of waiting until they are dead and then throw ourselves in an abandonment of grief across their inanimate forms?

Why do we wait until death comes to show our affection? Because we are selfish. Because we are careless. And yet the words of encouragement or sympathy we could give without costing us a single cent are left unsaid. The kindly act that would indicate our affectionate interest is not given. We forget that others are capable of feeling. That they are human like ourselves and are responsive to words of love or encouragement.

Men who never think of speaking an encouraging word to their sorely tried and hardworking wives, weep and wail and wonder about in hysterical display of affection when death has come and shown them the value of what they neglected. Many a woman gives way to her grief and makes a great display of sorrow over the death of the husband she never looked upon as anything but a machine for coining the money necessary for her pleasure.

Many a young person holds aloof from everything that might make less hurt the lot of father or mother until after death has taken one or both, and then comes the wailing and the weeping—and the flowers.

Let us not save the alabaster box for the death chamber. Let us use its contents to ease the heaviest of the living. Let us use it to show our regard and our interest. Let us give the roses to those whose lips are still able to kiss the dew from them. Let us give the lilies into hands sensitive to their delicacy. Let us show our appreciation of our friends in the thousand little ways our hearts dictate. Let us not be chary of affection, tributes which its objects are still quick to enjoy them.

Placing flowers on the caskets and graves of the dead is a beautiful custom. It marks the individual as not entirely given over to sordid things. But these flowers please only the eyes of the living. Balmies over the dead are satisfying to those who mourn, but they are not nearly as comforting as will be the knowledge that our beloved received every possible attention at our hands.

Double Chins Quickly Removed

If the advice of Mrs. Edna Wilder is followed there will be no more fat folks in a short time. She took off thirty pounds of superfluous flesh in less than six weeks, and removed her double chin in two weeks, by a treatment of her own discovery, and generally offers to tell anyone about it who is sufficiently interested to write her. By her method there is nothing to take internally, no face straps or body bandages to be worn,

DESCRIBES CHINESE CITIES IN LETTER

MISS MARY HUMPHREY WRITES OF TRIP TO CANTON AND HONGKONG.

INTERESTING SIGHTS

Chinese Who Live In Boats and Never Leave Their Floating Home For Whole Generations.

Miss Mary Humphrey, formerly of this city, who has been engaged as a nurse in the Philippine Islands, recently wrote a very interesting letter to her mother in this city. The letter is a description of a trip to Hongkong and Canton, China, which the young lady took in company with one of the other nurses. The letter follows:

Hongkong, China, April 12, 1911.

Dear Mother,

My letter to Nell describing the trip across the China Sea and this will probably leave Hongkong on the same steamer. We did some sight-seeing around the city Monday afternoon, then took river steamer at two o'clock for Canton, as Miss Waldman had but one day to spend before her boat sailed for Japan. She did not want to give up her trip to that country because we had to. All three of us went to Canton. The trip takes but six hours, so when we woke up Tuesday morning, we looked out on the most bewildering sight I ever set eyes on. The river was full of sampans, small boats with a bamboo cover to them, (I will enclose a picture of them, where hundreds live and die on them for generation after generation. In fact the people who live in this way form a clan of their own, and cannot mingle socially or marry into the land clans. Dozens of these boats came up alongside our steamer and men, women and children grabbed hold of a rope, or a post of a bamboo pole, anything that was available and climbed up the side of the ship like monkeys.

I couldn't discover what they came aboard for except to see the fellow man, for the steamer was full of them. A closer examination of these sampans, enclosed their housekeeping arrangements. Some of the boats looked quite clean, and comfortable. There was a box tacked to the side containing their dishes. Their cooking is done over a charcoal fire. Some of them had a crib for a pet and some children in a woven basket. The babies were either strapped to the mother's back, much as the Indian babies are, or they were turned loose in the sampan with a cord fastened to their waist at one end and to the top of the cover of the sampan at the other. The Chinese women all wear a loose short kimono or sack, and trousers. They manage the boat quite as well as their husbands.

As soon as the steamer drew up to the dock, native guides came aboard to secure parties to conduct through the city. It is impossible to see the city without a guide as you will understand later on. One of the officers on the steamer found our guide for us (I enclose his card), so we were quite distinguished with "an excellent" guide. As there is no place where meals can be gotten in the city, we had to take a lunch from the steamer. This the guide looked after while we were eating breakfast, but Miss Waldman was nearly convulsed over his coming to the table while we were eating, and asking if we wanted whiskey and soda put up for our drink. I told him cold tea would do.

At seven-thirty we were ready to start. The guide had a sedan chair for each of us and one for himself, with three coolies to each, two in front and one behind. To get into the chair the back coolie tips up the poles so the front ones touch the ground, then you step over one pole and back into the chair, much as a horse backs into the stable. When you are seated all three coolies put their shoulders under the poles and raise up together, then they take a peculiar swinging motion, half way between a walk and a trot, never moving their shoulders in the least, so there is no jar or unpleasant motion to the chair. Indeed it is quite as comfortable as a carriage. No other vehicle is used in the city, or can be because of the narrowness of the streets. The widest streets are not more than seven feet and the narrowest are four feet wide. In passing people in these streets, we crowded up close to the buildings on one side, and the foot passengers by turning sideways managed to squeeze by us.

The old city dates back 300 years before the Christian era, and it was in this section the streets were the narrowest. There is no space between buildings, simply a solid front of shops on either side of the street. Each street seemed to have its particular line of wares. On one was nothing but teakwood and sandalwood shops, where they were making the most beautiful carved furniture; on another street were nothing but foodstuffs; bakers would be mixing dough, fish vendors selling fish, butchers cutting up a hog, and selling it in little pieces; vegetable vendors with all kinds of their wares; on another street were silversmiths and on another silk shops, and in one section of the city were the silk weavers. In front of each shop, which is all open to the street, like a dry goods box with one side off, hangs a bright red narrow sign-board, perhaps six feet long bearing the shopkeeper's name and kind of wares. The enclosed name will give you some idea of how the shops and streets look.

The coolies are the burden bearers. Everything, from drygoods boxes to powerage is carried by them suspended from both ends of a bamboo pole, carried over their shoulders. Thus and again did we meet them carrying buckets of sawage to be emptied into a boat on the river and carried by it away from the city. No words can describe the awful odors one has to encounter in going through these streets. Time and again did we see the children squatted in front of the shops, attending to Nature's demands right in the street. The fifth was almost unendurable in some sections and every time we got out of our chairs, we were assailed on all sides by beggars holding out baskets and begging for "Cunehua" their word for money. The city reeked full of blind, diseased, crippled beggars. It was nauseating and depressing to see them. Our guide took us first to a silver smith who decorated his wares with the brilliant plumage of the birds' feathers, making them look when finished like enamel ware. We watched him men do the work, then each of us bought a piece; mine was a hairpin. Then our guide took us to the linen and silk stores, where we all made some purchases.

Our guide next took us to the jade shops. Jade is almost a sacred stone to the Chinese, but as I have a jade necklace, I did not care to invest in any. It is very beautiful. Sundrenched in between the visits to the shops, we were temples of all sorts and pak odors. At noon we had reached the live, storied pagoda which is famous in Canton. It is built on the highest hill in the city, for what purpose I could not learn, only that it perhaps fits the worship of Buddha. Here we ate our lunch.

On the fifth floor, in the center is a huge figure of Buddha seated in a chair and holds him his wife seated in another chair, and on each side are two huge figures like sentinels guarding Buddha. In the square formed by these figures the guide placed a table and stools and spread out our lunch. After the awful odors we had encountered in our two day travelling, through the city, it was hard for us to take kindly to the food, but there from need than appetite we forced ourselves to eat. We had bread and butter, cold ham, chicken and mutton, hard-boiled eggs, cookies, oranges and apples, a very good lunch.

The view from this floor of the pagoda was beautiful; to the front of us lay the city, covering only a small area although it stretches nearly a million miles, but the congestion of the buildings makes it cover a small space of territory. We could see nothing but a mass of the roofs, the streets, no green. To the back of us extended the cemetery, a vast area, fully as extensive as that of the city. The graves are simply holes dug in the side of the hill. The enclosed postal will give you an idea of it. Around the city extended a stone wall about twelve feet high and ten feet thick. The country seemed one vast expanse of rice paddies.

Of the temples we visited, I will only mention two or three that interested me the most. One was where the punishments were meted out to criminals. Around the three sides of the temple were a succession of illustrations in life-size figures of the different punishments inflicted. The headings were the simplest, a cat of boiling water, another of boiling oil, cutting the body in two across the trunk, sitting the body from the trunk, cutting the body from the trunk, laying the organs of the trunk open to view, putting the body head foremost into a rice grinder and grinding it up, even some of the sights portrayed by these figures. The guide was sorry there were no execution for us to witness that day. We were not, however. The postal enclosed shows that sight we might have witnessed had we struck a more favorable day.

Another temple known as the Temple of the Ancestry was interesting because of the beautiful carving. The entire structure is built of ebony and sandalwood, carved most exquisitely. In this are shown about twelve inches long and four wide on which are recorded the ancestry of the people of Canton. On their New Year's Day, the living come there and worship their ancestors and burn incense in their honor.

In another small temple rested the body of the treasurer of Canton and his wife each enclosed in a lacquer coffin, costing $1,000.00 each, the guide said.

Other places we visited were the lacquer shops, the ivory carvers, the silk weavers. It was a great temptation to buy in all these places, but their prices were high and I already have more of such stuff than I or you know what to do with, so I held on tightly to my purse and escaped.

These river steamers are large boats, accommodating about forty first class passengers. There was an excursion from Australia aboard and they returned from their trip through the city, loaded with Mandarin coats, Canton linens, embroideries, carved furniture, etc. It was quite amusing to us to hear them tell of their purchases.

It is a real art to shop successfully with the Chinese. You must first decide on what you want to buy, then you must offer them about one third the price they give to you, then you must continue to haggle with them, coming up a little on your price and he coming down on his until finally you meet and the bargain is made. I haggled for the silk crepe as long as I could hold out and gave it up. We had all gotten seated in our chairs ready to continue on our trip when the merchant gave in a dollar and then I came up a dollar cheaper and we met, at a price one dollar less than any one else I have heard any they paid for the crepe. If you feel in the mood for bargaining you can usually bring them to your terms, but it is extremely haggling.

They don't think much of you, however, unless you are successful at bargaining. Hongkong, I will describe in another letter, as this is already lengthy enough.

Docketster himself is more modern than ever and this year he has discarded even his famous dirigible balloon airship and has an aeroplane, made, so he asserts, on the plan of a Wright flying machine, although some of the doubters will insist that the brave Lew has himself firmly suspended to the floor by a system of overhead wires. Even the street parade is to be a modern affair.

Mr. Lew Docketster and his great minstrel company will be the closing attraction of the season at Myers Theatre, Janesville.

"Baby Mine" in London. "Baby Mine", the laughing comedy which made such a hit in this city during the past season, is now playing in London. A critic in that city has the following to say about the show:

"Baby Mine" has, after all, settled down into a solid success at the Criterion. But it is only to remain there six weeks longer. In changing his contract with Greet, Charles Wyndham, who always likes to be on the safe side of the fence, made the condition that he was to be allowed to give Greet six weeks' notice to quit. Greet retorted that in that case he must have the same right to cry off with Wyndham. "The Girl in the Train" is shortly to be withdrawn at the Vaudeville, and Greet saw his chance of squeezing another 5 per cent out of Sir Charles or, if the suggestion were pushed, or transferring "Baby Mine" to the Vaudeville. It was a case of bluff on both sides, and the best hand won. Wyndham professes, however, that he doesn't in any way regret losing Greet as a tenant, as he and Mary More are only too glad to have the Criterion for themselves during May and June, when the coronation festivities will be in full swing."

Tuesday's Paper Tells! All About Free Washing Powder Week

On Tuesday morning we will have a page advertisement telling you all about Free Washing Powder Week. How you may get free big full-pound packages of Johnson's Washing Powder. What dealers have them. Look for your grocer's name on the big page advertisement.

Galvanic Soap AND Johnson's Washing Powder Make Housework Easy

Galvanic is a pure white soap. It makes clothes white-clean—saves half your soap money, for it goes twice as far. It lets you wash in half the time and costs no more than ordinary soaps. With Galvanic you don't have to boil the clothes, and you need rub only very soiled spots. Johnson's Washing Powder cleans everything in the house without you breaking your back scrubbing. And most important of all, disinfects while it cleans—all without hurting the hands. You will find that the soap that suits 1,000,000, will do the best work for you.

Rambler Motor Cars

Rambler big wheels and tires are a great advantage in city as well as in country driving. They not only afford added comfort, but tests have shown that tires even an inch larger in diameter and half an inch greater in width will last twice as long. Small wheels drop into the holes in the roadway, adding greatly to the discomfort and wear on tires. Big wheels and tires glide lightly over depressions, providing wide cushioning surface for comfort and tire economy. This advantage is only one of many enjoyed by Rambler owners—features of quality, comfort, safety and convenience. The Off-set Crank Shaft, makes possible slow driving in crowded traffic, and climbing hills easy. The Straight Line Drive saves power, the Spare Wheel saves tire worry. Rambler brakes provide complete safety, and Rambler service assures satisfaction.

M. L. O'NIEL,
Janesville, Wisconsin.

A telephone message to the nearest Rambler representative will bring this car to your door for inspection. The new catalogue is ready. Send for it.

I treat Rheumatism, Enlarged Veins, Fistula, Piles, Constipation, All Rectal Diseases, Weak and Unhealthy Kidneys, and Lingering Ailments.

I personally attend everyone who applies for treatment, not only in person, but by letter, as I have no incompetent hired doctors to unsuccessfully treat my patients, and every man who engages my services gets the benefit of the efficiency that has marked my success in the past.

I have cured thousands, many of whom had been given up for lost. If your physical system has been impaired, if your vitality is weakened, from weakness or poverty, if you are suffering with disease in any form, you can restore yourself to peak and obtain a tremendous power at once.

MY CONSULTATION WILL COST YOU NOTHING, BUT MY CHARGES FOR A PERFECT CURE WILL BE REASONABLE AND NOT MORE THAN YOU WILL BE WILLING TO PAY FOR THE BENEFITS CONFERRED.

LADIES CONSULT A SPECIALIST If you are suffering from desolating Headache, Pains in the Back, or feel that it will be impossible for you to endure your troubles and still be enabled to attend to your household and social obligations, I will give you the best of my skill and my care. I have treated and cured a great many from the city. Thousands cured at home by letters sent as directed. Absolute secrecy in plainly, giving street and number. Send

Send your laundry to a laundress "who knows how" to put painstaking care into the work and return it in the condition in which you want it returned. You can find that laundress through the Want Ads.

DAILY DIET AND HEALTH HINTS

By DR. T. J. ALLEN
Food Specialist

"STRONG FOOD DOES NOT NECESSARILY INVOLVE STRENGTH."

When the digestion is impaired it is very important to avoid overeating, especially of foods rich in albumen. The excess taken beyond the power to digest and assimilate is converted into depreciable poisons. A moderate or small ration well digested feeds the blood and from it the tissues, better than a large meal, little of which is properly digested.

Liquor Stored in Church Crypt.
The ancient crypt beneath St. Peter's church, Shaftsbury, England, is used for a beer and wine cellar, but not with the consent of the church, which is now trying to buy the lease that has been held by the present owners since the dissolution of the monasteries.

THE TRUE TEST.
Tried in Janesville, It Has Stood the Test.

The hardest test in the test of time, and Don's Kidney Pills have stood it well in Janesville. Kidney sufferers can hardly ask for stronger proof than the following:
Mrs. Emma Hill, 542 S. Franklin St., Janesville, Wis., says: "I suffered terribly from pains through the small of my back and hips and I also had trouble from the kidney secretions. Someone finally advised me to try Don's Kidney Pills and I did so, procuring them at the People's Drug Co. The contents of two or three boxes corrected my trouble. I hope that the publication of my statement will induce other kidney sufferers to give Don's Kidney Pills a trial." (Blatant ment given in August, 1908.)

RE-ENDORSEMENT.
Mrs. Hill was interviewed on September 23, 1910, and she said: "You may continue to publish my former statement, regarding Don's Kidney Pills. Since I used them two years ago, I have had no further need of a kidney medicine."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-McMillan Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.
